Miss America To Appear At "Stars" Show July 21

Miss Donna Axum, Miss America of 1964 will be a special performing guest at the July 21 presentation of "Stars In My Crown", Max B. Hurt, president of the drama association, said today. Miss America, the First Lady of Beauty and Talent in the United States, will arrive at the Paducah airport on Ozark Lines at 12:06 p. m. She will be driven to Murray, where she will make a tour of the State Parks and other interesting sites in the West Kentucky area.

The lovely lady, who hails from El Dorado, Arkansas will spend the night at Kenlake Hotel. A specially arranged program, in which Miss America will participate, will begin at 7:30 p. m. The drama will begin at 8:15 p. m., as usual.

As previously revealed to the purchasers, season tickets will not be good for the "Miss America" performance; however, season ticket purchasers will be given the first opportunity to obtain tickets to the "Miss America" performance, which will sell for $3.00 each.

In accepting the invitation to attend "Stars In My Crown," Miss America said that she is looking forward to her appearance at the drama which shows nightly at Kenlake Amphitheatre at 8:15 p. m. except Mondays. "I was a little girl when Alben Barkley was vice-president, but I have learned about his greatness and I am anxious to see the story of his life dramatized," she said.

Arrangements are being made to have as many people as possible meet Miss America personally. Final plans for Miss America's visit to West Kentucky are being worked on by the board of directors of the drama group. An official welcome for her may be planned for Murray and Paducah.

Miss America will be accompanied to her "Stars In My Crown" appearance by Miss Lucille Previtt, her official chaperone. Tickets for Miss America's appearance at the outdoor drama will be available for sale next week. However, written requests may be sent now to the "Stars In My Crown" box office in Murray. South Fulton Council Finds Compromise On Hot Issue Of Vending Machine Taxes

In a long session marked by lengthy and heated debate the South Fulton City Council Monday night finally resolved by compromise the long-standing problem of privilege licenses for vending machines.

In other action, the Council decided:

- 1.) not to demand immediate payment by Dr. H. W. Connaughton of a large debt owed by him to the city.
- 2.) to restore two-way traffic on Taylor and Bates Streets between West State Line and College Streets,
- 3.) to change the system of collecting unpaid utility bills,

4.) to contract with Nichols Engineering of Union City to draw up final plans for a water treatment plant, new water storage facilities, and the extension of water lines along McKinney Road to tie together dead-end lines on intersecting streets.

5.) to enter a city float in the International Banana Festival parade.

6.) to turn bills owed to the city over to the City Attorney for collection, and

7.) to hire Harold Watson as a laborer at $1.25 per hour for the sewage disposal plant and any other jobs on which his services can be used.

To conclude the long and heated dispute over the taxing of vending machines by the city, the Council voted to repeal the ordinance requiring tobacco-vending licenses on each cigarette vending machine and refund all money paid for the licenses since January 1. When discussion began Councilman John Bland proposed changing the city tax ordinance which require separate privilege taxes to be paid on each individual vending operated in the city.

Bland pointed out that the city charter gives the council the right, if it chooses to use it, to levy taxes on anything which the state of Tennessee taxes, and that the state taxes vending machines. He proposed that South Fulton's ordinances be changed to charge a privilege tax on all vending machines which carry a state tax stamp.

Mayor Counce pointed out that the state does not rigidly enforce its tax on vending machines and that many being operated in the city do not bear the stamp which must be attached to them to show that the tax has been paid.

Bland changed his position somewhat and said that he felt the city should tax exactly the same things that the state taxed and thus eliminate the confusion of having a different taxing policy.

In the preceding council discussion of the problem on June 8, Bland proposed that the city should exempt all vending machines operated as a part of another business on which a privilege tax is also required. Monday night he said that he still felt that taxing those who had already paid another privilege tax was double taxation, but that he had concluded that the most equitable way to settle the problem was simply to follow the taxing policy of the state.

John Reeks had, during the previous meeting, objected to Bland's stand on the grounds that it would discriminate against him since vending machines themselves are his business. When Bland made his "tax as the state taxes" proposal Monday night, Reeks said, "I don't want to be discriminated against, that's my objection." This comment was apparently in reference to Counce's earlier point that

County Democrats Convene Saturday

Fulton County Democrats will meet in County convention Saturday July 11 at the courthouse in Hickman for the purpose of electing delegates to the district convention July 18.

The county convention will convene at 2:00 p. m. and all registered Democrats in the county are invited to attend.

The District and State conventions will convene July 18 at the Kentucky hotel in Louisville, the first at 10:00 a. m. and the second at 1:00 p. m. to select delegates to the national convention in Atlantic City in late August.

Miss Arista House, Miss Enid Lee, and Marshall Atkins attended a three-day meeting for youth and instructors of the West Tennessee AME district in Jackson Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday.

Bland changed his position somewhat and said that he felt the city should tax exactly the same things that the state taxed and thus eliminate the confusion of having a different taxing policy.

Time magazine described the event as the "largest and most distinguished group of celebrities ever assembled for a non-political affair."

The New York Times said: "Never has a more glittering array of distinguished people gathered with so little fanfare." Other New York and American newspapers were equally impressed with the guest list at the dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Smith honoring the trustees of the John F. Kennedy Memorial Library Foundation. Mrs. Smith is the sister of the late President Kennedy.

President of the United States Lyndon Johnson and Mrs. Johnson were in attendance. So were many members of the President's Cabinet, with their wives; Chief Justice of the Supreme Court Earl Warren and Mrs. Warren, and other members of the Supreme Court and their wives. As a matter of fact, except for the executive director of the Kennedy Library Foundation of Kentucky (that's me) I daresay the 174 other guests at the dinner at the St. Regis Hotel on June 16, in New York, had some kind of national, international, industrial or social status in these United States.

So many of you have asked me to give a full report of the dinner that I think I shall, not only to give you the events of a very memorable occasion for a small town editor, but because I want to put it all on paper for posterity. While the event is fresh in my mind I want to re-live it, so that when the years start mounting quickly I'll be able to go back and live it all over again.

The invitation to be in New York on June 16 came as a result of our efforts in Kentucky on behalf of the Kennedy Library's fund drive in this State. Governor Edward T. Breathitt and former Governor Bert T. Combs, who is state chairman of the drive in Kentucky, designated me as the State's official representative at a meeting to which all 50 State chairmen were invited. The meeting, a luncheon at the Four Seasons Restaurant, was presided over by Eugene Black, national chairman of the Kennedy Library Foundation. Mr. Black is the former president of the World Bank.

Except for a very few other men (I was the only woman) who represented their states, the meeting was attended by Governors, and former Governors, Senators, Congressmen and leading figures on the financial and industrial scene in America. For instance Don Douglas, president of Douglas Aircraft, represented California. The luncheon was a "working session" for the State chairmen or their representatives. I would be less than honest if I didn't say that I was extremely pleased to learn that only three States were asked to give reports of their successful library fund drives. The Governor of Rhode Island made a report from his State; Mr. Douglas gave the report from California, and I gave the report from Kentucky.

So well received was the report of the Kentucky endeavor that other State chairmen are putting into motion some of the ideas for fund-raising that originated in Kentucky.

On Friday before I left for New York on Tuesday, the Kennedy headquarters, having received my acceptance to attend the luncheon, called from New York to advise that Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Smith wanted me to attend the dinner at the St. Regis that evening (June 16). "You were included on the

Six Hurt, Four Seriously, as Truck Rams Auto Head-on Wednesday On U.S. 51

TERRIFIC IMPACT of head-on collision with produce truck tore the front end of this Buick sedan completely to pieces, exploding parts all over the highway. Auto veered into ditch (above). All of the injured were in this vehicle.

IMPACT SHEARED FRONT WHEEL off produce truck, which miraculously stayed right-side up as it ploughed off highway to right, on three wheels, shearing a telephone pole. Motor caught fire and motor and cab burned before Fulton fire truck could reach scene. Driver escaped without injury.

Six passengers in an automobile were injured—four of them seriously—in a head-on collision Wednesday morning on U. S. 51 about two miles north of Fulton.

The 1960 Buick sedan, carrying three women and four children, was struck head-on by a produce truck attempting to pass a large trailer truck in a no-passing zone.

The driver of the produce truck was unhurt, although the collision sheared off the left front wheel of the vehicle, causing it to leave the road and break off a telephone pole, and then burst into flames.

The women and children were enroute to Fulton from Cayce to buy groceries, according to a statement of one of the children at the hospital.

Riding in the car were Mrs. L. D. Overby of Cayce; Mrs. Cecil Tyson, 42, her daughter Nancy, 14, and Tanya Dent, 14, all of Jessup, Georgia; and Mrs. Richard Peters, 28, and daughters Kimberly, 2, and Robin, 6, of Bristol, Virginia. The passengers of the car represent four generations of the same family. Mrs. Tyson is Mrs. Overby's daughter and Mrs. Peters her granddaughter. Tanya Dent is the niece of Mrs. Tyson's husband. They were all visiting Mrs. Overby at her home in Cayce.

Mrs. Overby, the most seriously injured, had both of her legs mangled in the wreck. After treatment at a local hospital she was rushed to the Obion County Hospital in Union City for immediate surgery.

Mrs. Tyson, her daughter Nancy, and Mrs. Peters suffered mangled left legs and were rushed to Memphis hospitals after emergency treatment in Fulton.

Mrs. Peters' daughters Kimberly, who received face lacerations, and Robin, who was unhurt, were also taken to Memphis. Tanya suffered lacerations and bruises and is still a patient at the Hillview Hospital.

The wreck occurred on U. S. 51 about two miles north of Fulton near the state's truck-weighting station. The car, which was driven by Mrs. Tyson, was heading south toward Fulton, and the truck, owned by the Landis Produce Company of Judsonia, Arkansas, was going north.

According to preliminary police reports, the produce truck attempted to pass a semi-trailer truck in a no-passing zone on a low hill just south of the weighing station. The car containing the seven women and children was rammed head-on by the produce truck as it approached the top of the hill in the car's lane.

The automobile was knocked into the ditch on the west side of the road and its passengers were thrown out along the highway. The produce truck veered across the road, hit a utility pole, stopped and then caught fire in the east ditch between the highway and the adjacent railroad tracks. The Fulton Fire Department was called to extinguish the blaze.

Dr. Glynn Bushart, who treated several of the victims, said that he felt the serious leg injuries sustained by four of the passengers of the car must have been caused by their being run over by the large truck which the produce truck was attempting to pass.

The driver of the produce truck, Danny Bridges, 20, of Judsonia, Arkansas, was taken to the Fulton jail. State Policeman Joe Hill said that he would be charged with several offenses including reckless driving.

Mrs. Byrd Home From Hospital

Mrs. Vera Byrd is recuperating at her home on Highway 51, north of Fulton, after returning from a two-weeks stay in the Baptist Hospital in Memphis, where she underwent surgery.

While in the hospital each of her children, as well as other relatives and friends, visited her, sent cards, called and offered prayers for her recovery. All these contributed to her improvement.

Road - Routing Controversy Is A Log Jam Of 4 - State Interests That Ought To Be Settled Now

Whether it was just coincidence or not, it looks like our editorial last week dealing with planned and projected superhighways and toll roads in this area was followed by a storm of blaring outcries by most all the papers in this area, on the same subject.

The waters are already good and muddy on this subject, which originally began as a simple connecting link of the interstate system between Cairo and Nashville, to be called I-24. Only Kentucky and Tennessee were involved, but even they couldn't get together. Kentucky sought to run the route from Paducah, Illinois, cross the Ohio at Paducah, cross Ky. Dam, and go to Nashville by way of Ft. Campbell and Clarksville, leaving much less of the mileage for Tennessee and leaving the Purchase high and dry.

The Bureau of Public Roads in Washington, which had originally tentatively sketched the route to come from Cairo, east of Mayfield and west of Murray and Paris just sat there. It had veto power over the location if it didn't like it, but it could not dictate the route.

About this time Missouri Governor John Dalton, who hails from the "boot" area of southeastern Missouri, decided this would be a good time to throw in his pet project: a new bridge across the Mississippi connecting the "boot" area with upper northwest Tennessee. The only trouble was, he had no federal interstate mileage allotted to the route, and it's pretty hard to build a big bridge that isn't connected to something at each end.

But Dalton persisted. We talked to him a couple of years ago in St. Louis and he was red-hot on the project and sought to enlist all the support he could in Western Kentucky. At the time, we couldn't see any benefit to this area of Kentucky and sort of mentally filed the whole thing away for the time being. We still don't see how he managed to get his foot in the door. Maybe it's just because Rex Whitton (Federal Roads Bureau Chief), is a native Missourian.

But it seems that Tennessee must have perked up a little with Dalton's idea of a new Jackson-Hayti route, and evidently agreed to Kentucky routing I-24 around the dam if Kentucky would in turn support the proposed bridge. The only trouble then seemed to be that the unallotted interstate mileage wasn't enough to take care of both I-24 and the Jackson-Hayti route; and further, one route more or less duplicates the other. Then began a tug-of-war which lasts till this day with nothing yet resolved.

It didn't make much difference to us, what went where; we were sitting on the sidelines anyhow off the track.

But now in the meantime Kentucky has been busy building a major road system right up the middle of the State. Toll roads, to be sure, but fine, top-notch roads. They built westward to Princeton and then quit, thinking they would get a 90% discount-ride on into Paducah on I-24, but they don't have it yet. The route of I-24 is still down in the muddy waters trying to get decided. Right now it's involved in a 4-State compromise with all sorts of side items thrown in to make decision difficult.

All of which brings us up to what we were talking about last week: we don't care where I-24 goes (but think it ought to be decided now, and once and for all); it would be nice to have a new bridge across the Mississippi down south of us in Tennessee; but it seems nearly imperative that a final toll-road leg be built from Gilbertsville down to Fulton to connect with U. S. 51 and provide fast and high-volume traffic between these two points.

But things are quite involved with each other, like a log jam that can't get unsnarled. We want the toll road link to Fulton. Perhaps the toll road link to Fulton can't be built justifiably unless there is to be a new bridge across the river. Perhaps it can't be built until it can join a 4-lane road at Gilbertsville.

But we hope that it can and think it makes sense even now. We will be watching for the results of the feasibility study with much interest.

STRICTLY BUSINESS by McFeatters

Les Campbell and Aubrey Morris, of this city, have purchased the stock and business of the B. L. Rawls Grocery located on State Line Street in South Fulton. The store will now go under the firm name of U-Carry Grocery.

At a meeting of representatives of the local civic clubs at the Kentucky Utilities office last week funds and plans for the ensuing year for the Fulton Service Club were raised and discussed. Mrs. S. M. McMyer, chairman of the Fulton Service Club, where men of the armed forces are entertained while in Fulton, assisted by others, has been doing a good job in this work. F. A. Homra, chief fund raiser, surprised the meeting by presenting $850.00 to be used for carrying on the work at the Fulton Service Center, this money having been donated by the alcoholic beverage dealers of the city.

Members of the Susanah Wesley Class of the First Methodist Church were guests of honor at a dinner party on July 13 at the church. About fifty guests attended.

Telephone employees gave Miss Beulah Palmer, employee of Southern Bell Telephone Company, who is being transferred temporarily to Atlanta, a going away party on July 3. A delightful picnic was enjoyed on the lawn of the telephone exchange.

In a simple, but beautiful, ceremony on July 5 Miss Anna Frances Graham of Fulton became the bride of L. A. Richard Hitchcock, AAF, Midland, Texas, in the First Methodist Church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Walter Mischke, pastor, in the presence of the two families and close friends. Miss Janice Koonce of Waterloo, Iowa was maid of honor and the only attendant.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Satterfield observed their fourteenth wedding anniversary at their home near Water Valley on July 6. Mrs. Satterfield's mother, Mrs. Cleveland Bard, was also honored. Mrs. Bard celebrated her birthday on July 6.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gates entertained with a family dinner on July 6 at their home on Central Avenue. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Young and Mrs. T. J. Gates of Dyersburg; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Evans and children of Paducah; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ferrell, Ernest Cannon, Mrs. R. A. Young and Mrs. Ted Mauck of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Jim Norman, Mr. and Mrs. Bob McCully, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Vaughn and Miss Tommie Nell Gates.

100 Years Ago This Week

An historical review of the Civil War day by day in Kentucky, as reviewed by the Kentucky Civil War Commission

By JOE JORDAN

One hundred years ago this week President Lincoln put Kentucky under martial law and suspended the writ of habeas corpus. Thus a person arrested by the military could not appeal to the courts. Often his family could not find out the nature of the charge against him, or where he was confined. And he might be one of four prisoners selected to die before a firing squad in retaliation for the killing of one Union citizen by unknown persons.

Col. Frank Wolford, former commander of the First Kentucky (Union) Cavalry, who in March had been dismissed dishonorably from the service for making a speech in which he criticized the President and in June had been arrested and sent under guard to Washington, returned to Kentucky unaccompanied. In his case, Kentucky congressmen had made an appeal to the President, who directed that Wolford be released from custody on condition he give his word to report for trial at Louisville. Reporting Wolford's arrival, the Louisville Journal said: "He is to remain here until he has his trial before a court of examination, or some other kind of military court, for language said to have been used by him at Lebanon . . . We do not understand that he is to be tried under any law."

Gov. Thomas E. Bramlette said in a letter to Lt. Gov. Richard T. Jacob, "The pretense upon which he was arrested I had not been able to learn until you informed me . . . that it was upon the charge of discouraging enlistments." The governor was astonished, for Wolford had just succeeded in enlisting an entire regiment of state troops at Bramlette's request.

The Lexington Observer and Reporter carried this story about two former residents of Lexington: "It is stated that the residence of Francis P. Blair at Silver Spring, Md., near Washington, was saved from destruction by the agency of John C. Breckinridge, who was no doubt influenced by the friendly relations previously existing between him and the owner." Breckinridge was a major general in the Confederate Army. Blair was a strong Union man. One of his sons, Francis P. Blair, Jr., was a major general in the Union Army and another, Montgomery Blair, was postmaster general in President Lincoln's cabinet.

The Observer and Reporter said the first speeches in Lexington by supporters of Mr. Lincoln had been made to a "very meagre number" of voters, one speech "by ex-Gov. Wright of Indiana (an old Democrat who, after spending his life in fighting Abolitionism, has now been converted into a most excellent radical of the Lincoln school), the other by Charles Eginton of Winchester, the Lincoln elector for this district. Although it was county court day and the orators delivered themselves in the courthouse yard, yet the people did not seem inclined to be enlightened from such sources."

State Payroll Cut For Month of May

Frankfort, June — Significant curtailment of the State May payroll has been reported by Personnel Commissioner Walter R. Gattis.

The May 1964 payroll, he said, totals $55,129 less than the April figure, reversing the trend in which May totals have exceeded those of the previous months for many years.

The May 1964 payroll figure for regular employees was $7,802,816.

JOHN F. KENNEDY MEMORIAL LIBRARY: A PROFILE OF THE MAN AND EPOCH

Among the many cultural and educational activities to which the late President Kennedy was devoted, his project for a library took first place. . . . His interest in the Library was one of the truly great interests of his life. Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy recently said.

President Kennedy's plan for the Library is being carried out by the American people. Already five million dollars have been collected in thousands of contributions—large and small. The total cost will be $10 million. The Library will be constructed in Boston, on a campus site selected by President Kennedy himself and donated by Harvard University.

The Library will provide a profile of the man and epoch. Even more, it will include the Kennedy Memorial Institute, a

Words Don't Fit The Music; Today's 'Peace' Is Really War

One of the difficulties in understanding what's going on today lies in the fact that the words normally applied to various activities and relations between nations don't mean what they say any more. War was once armed conflict. Today it is a hot war, a cold war, a police action or a spending program aimed at poverty.

Columnist Walter Trohan in the Chicago Tribune, points up some reasons why our actions often do not seem to suit our words. We have been in what the pundits like to call the cold war for 18 years. It has cost us $900 billion in maintenance of our military establishment at a war footing in time of peace, and $120 billion in foreign aid.

Some of the billions in foreign aid have gone to the enemy we are fighting. Trohan states "Yugoslavia has been given more than two billions, purportedly to encourage a split with Moscow yet Marshal Tito and Nikita S. Khrushchev have grown closer together. More millions have gone to Poland whose Red leaders grow chummier and chummier with those in the Kremlin."

In Harry Truman's Korean "police action," which his Administration stubbornly refused to rightly name as a war since he hadn't consulted Congress before committing U. S. forces, casualties—killed and wounded—totalled 157,530. To those who fought, and to their relatives and friends it was a war. Today in Vietnam we have lost 236 Americans and have had many more wounded. This activity is clocked with the term "advisors." We aren't participating, just helping out—yet we suffer casualties just as if we were taking an active part.

Cold war losses can be as disastrous as hot war setbacks, Trohan points out. Some 600 million Chinese are held in slavery. Cubans are suffering the privations of Communism. Communism is winning in Africa. Communism has made gains in Latin America. The Soviet hold on Europe has not lessened. Trade concessions are being made by our allies. Soviet influence in the Arab Nations has increased.

Cloaked as peace, Trohan declares, are conciliation appeasement and even surrender. He cites the test ban treaty which was hailed as a great step toward peace, yet hasn't moved the world a hair's breadth toward peace. It was, in actuality, a step backward to the moratorium on nuclear tests. Russia broke the moratorium in 1961, and by our accepting her treaty terms, froze the advantages she had gained by clandestine testing.

It's a difficult world when losses are described as victories—when peace is really war.

About People and Things

We may lose a subscriber as a result of this news item that we record herewith, but we've got to take the consequences. While in New York last week we enjoyed a most pleasurable afternoon and evening with one of our most favorite people, and yours too!! Ella Doyle, a former Fultonian, as you know is employed as a television producer with John Hay Whitney's Corinthian Broadcasting Corporation. The network has some six or seven television stations, as well as radio stations, spread all over these United States. Ella, who might possibly have acquired her love for the communications media, in lil ole Fulton, has a rather important voice in the management, public relations and programming phase of all of them.

Ella was nice enough to invite Elizabeth Caldwell, of Elizabeth's Dress Shop here, and this writer to see her offices in the Time and Life Building, located on the 46th floor. The firm has a magnificently decorated array of offices that house not only Corinthian's operations, but the executive offices of the New York Herald-Tribune, which Mr. Whitney owns, as well as the offices of Mr. Whitney's other holdings.

Mr. Whitney, has a huge corner office of the suite, that has the most breath-takingly beautiful view of New York we've ever seen. The former Ambassador to the Court of St. James, among other interests, is a collector of fine and rare art. His office, and the other offices in the suite, are decorated with some of his collections. While we had the enjoyment of visiting the offices in the day-time, we also had the incomparable pleasure of viewing the New York skyline at night. After dinner at the famous La Fonda de Sol (we think that's the spelling) we motored up to the Tower Suite and met Ella's "boss" who thinks right highly of our Fulton miss.

To give you an idea of the kind of work that Ella does can be explained by her visit to Washington each week. There Ella is producing supervisor for a news commentary program featuring such nationally known figures as Roscoe Drummond, Stewart Alsop, Marquis Childs and others of that ilk. When asked how she felt about directing such distinguished personages, Ella said: "They are real pros. They want to be seen to their best advantage on the TV screen. They are easy to work with, and appreciative of any suggestions made to them to improve their programs."

Knowing Ella as we do you know that taking suggestions and orders from her comes as a pleasure to people in anybody's glamour world.

Ella knows her way around New York. Though we'll admit she's acquired a great love for walking and tries to influence others to do the same. (See Notebook.) Sometimes, many times, she walks the 35 blocks from her lovely apartment to her office, right in the midst of everything historic and significant in the great American city. Ella has been invited to cover activities for the Banana Festival for her stations. With your help we might get her here. A story about us on her large television stations . . . (Fort Wayne, Sacramento and other large cities), wouldn't hurt us would it?

It was so nice to have a visit last week from Mrs. Otis Howard, who is one of our most ardent subscribers, and a close friend too. Mrs. Howard, of Oklahoma City divided her visit in this area between Union City and Fulton, with some of her old friends. The lovely lady, who has travelled in many parts of this big world, keeps in close touch with Fulton. She said she's going to be here for the Banana Festival this year. We hope that the program planned will give her even more reason to be proud of us.

While here Mrs. Howard joined with Mrs. Frances K. Cunningham of Union City and entertained with a luncheon at the Park Terrace for Miss Ellen Kearby, the bride of Gaylon Varden.

The bride-elect was lovely in a tulle-trimmed frock of light blue with blinding accessories. Gifts from the hostesses were colorful flowered sheet and pillow cases and a silver sugar and creamer brought from Hong Kong by Mrs. Howard.

Guests included: Mrs. Lee R. Kearby, Mrs. Ray French Kemp and daughter Sara, Mrs. Joyce Mabry Anderson, all of Hickman; Mrs. Grady Varden, Mrs. Smith Atkins and Mrs. Joseph Kalth of Fulton; Mrs. Charles Howard of Fort Meade, Florida and Mrs. J. B. Kearby and Mrs. D. J. Murchison of Crutchfield.

Mrs. Millard R. Sarson, of Washington, D. C. is another one of our friends who keeps up with the Fulton whirl, via the News. Mrs. Sarson sent us an interesting news story about her son, and asked that the personal note to us not be published. She wasn't very emphatic about not publishing the letter, and since she wasn't we are going to publish the letter because we think it's so interesting. Here it is:

Dear Mrs. Westpheling: This little item about our son is for publication, if you want it. However, my letter is "just for you".

I have wanted to tell you how I enjoyed watching the Banana Festival on television—it was fine coverage, I thought, and I was so pleased to receive the special edition with the pictures. I was very glad, also, to receive the promotional pictures of Kentucky. If (Continued on page four) ported that it was, indeed, a well guarded secret. So much so, said one newspaper, that when the President's plane arrived at the airport he and his party were hustled off along a seldom used route to the St. Regis. The newspaper said: "Many of the President's party got in cars and concealed their faces with newspapers to prohibit identity."

NEW YORK TRIP —

Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, the former Ambassador and Mrs. Joseph Kennedy and the Attorney General arrived in New York before the Presidential party. But it was President and Mrs. Johnson who arrived at the party before the Kennedys. Entering from a side door, the President and Mrs. Johnson entered the ballroom minutes after an uninvited New York lawyer had been taken away from the ball-room by the secret service men. The uninvited guest was detected when he went to the table to receive his card designating his seat for the dinner.

I was at table number seven. Among my dinner companions were Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges, Mrs. Ernest Hemingway, Fritz Hollins governor of South Carolina, Tom Kenny of Vermont, Travis Stewart, executive director of the Democratic party of Georgia, Mrs. Dave McDonald, the wife of the president of the United Steel workers and Julie Harris, who was Mrs. Robert Kennedy's college room-mate.

But I'm getting a little bit ahead of myself. Before the dinner the Smiths greeted their guests at a cocktail party in a lovely room adjoining the ball-room where the dinner was held. Mr. Kenny, Mr. Douglas and former Governor Hollins, Mrs. Hollins and I were in a little group standing right by the door when the President and Mrs. Johnson arrived. We had the ultimate pleasure of chatting with them before the receiving line was formed. Mrs. Johnson was telling us of her recent, very pleasant visit in Kentucky to the state convention of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs.

The President asked to be remembered to Governor Breathitt and former Governor Combs. The President is one of those wonderful people who makes anybody around him feel at ease. Noticing that he was wearing horn-rimmed glasses, instead of the ones he usually wears, I told them that he looked much younger in them. Whereupon this man with a fantastic memory said: "So you must be the lady who wrote Bess Abell that I ought to change the glasses." He doesn't want to miss it this year. What fun it was to have a gay moment with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Murray. She's just as tiny as she appears on television and he is just as tall. Mrs. Murray was joshing her husband about his arthritis; he told her she had a gimp leg.

Going to my seat at the dinner table was awe-stricken to see that President Johnson, Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy and Mrs. Stephen Smith were sitting right behind me. When I turned in my chair to enjoy that perfectly wonderful presentation of President Kennedy's favorite poems by Mr. and Mrs. Frederic March, it was necessary for the President to move his chair a little so I could see.

Sitting almost side by side with the former First Lady, who had carefully selected the poems for the Marches, I could see that she was visibly touched by the incomparable recitations as only Frederic March and Florence Eldridge can do them.

Bernard Gimbel of New York served as master of ceremonies. Speaking briefly on behalf of the Kennedy Library Foundation, he introduced the Attorney General who expressed his appreciation for the attendance. None of us could hold back a knot in the throat when he addressed the guests . . . "President and Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Smith, my beloved mother."

It was a magnificent experience. And here are just a few more of the people I shared it with!

Chief Justice Earl Warren, Justice Arthur J. Goldberg, Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman and Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Anthony J. Celebrezze. Some were accompanied by their wives.

The Cabinet officers and the two Justices came on the same plane with the President. An aide said that while it was unusual for so many top members of the Administration to fly together in one aircraft, it was not unprecedented. Only the President and the Vice President never fly in the same plane.

Other guests were: Adlai E. Stevenson, United States delegate to the United Nations; Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr., former aide to President Kennedy; Under Secretary of State W. Averell Harriman; David Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union; David J. McDonald, president of the United Steel Workers; Earl E. T. Smith, former Ambassador to Cuba, and Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Also, Bernard F. Gimbel, Samuel Barber, Mrs. Albert D. Lasker, Mrs. Ernest Hemingway, Theodore White and William Walton.

you have any more copies of the latter I would like for you to send two of them to former Fultonians. They are: Mrs. J. G. Brower, 738 Elm St., Raymond, Washington—98577. The other is for Rev. H. E. Porter, 21 Langley Drive, Greenville, S. C.—29605. If there is any charge you may bill me when you send notice of subscription renewal. Thank you for this courtesy.

I do enjoy getting The News and I sit right down and read it when it comes on Monday. I am always interested to see what Nancy Adams is doing. I was right there in front of the TV when you and she were on Arthur Godfrey's evening program, also those two different weeks when she was on his daytime show. I did not distinguish which one she was when she was on Perry Como's program in New Orleans, however.

Sincerely,
Annie Lucile Sarson
(Mrs. Millard R. Sarson)

And here's the story about the Larson's pride and joy:

Charles R. Sarson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Millard R. Sarson, of Washington, N. J. was graduated from Lehigh University on June 8 with a Bachelor of Science degree in Metallurgical Engineering. He has accepted a position with the Republic Steel Corporation and will begin work in Cleveland, Ohio on July 6.

Sarson, who is a grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Goldsby, visited in Fulton on numerous occasions during his early childhood. His mother is the former Annie Lucile Goldsby.

James Isles, with the Continental Trailways, showed a most interesting film of New York and the World's Fair at the meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club Tuesday night, which was held in the Fulton Electric System building.

During the business session, which was in charge of the president, Mrs. Ramelle Pigue, the club voted to purchase two B&P highway signs, one to be placed on the highway in Tennessee and the other in Kentucky.

Mrs. Mozelle Green, chairman of the World Affairs committee, had requested the club to participate in the "Banana Festival Association's blanket brigade. Several brought blankets to the meeting and others will be turned over to Mrs. Green at a later date.

Three visitors were present: Mrs. Linnie Clark, with Mrs. Elizabeth Caldwell; Mrs. G. L. Murchison of Atlanta, with Mrs. Pigue and Mrs. Rose Brown of Chula Vista, Calif., with her granddaughter, Mrs. Priscilla Clark.

Congratulations to Susan and Richard Cardwell on the birth of a son, Richard Lewis Cardwell, Jr., on July 7. If these names are not correct, then everyone else is wrong, too. We still remember the wrong name in our paper when Susan and Richard married.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Green are leaving Friday night for the Elks National Convention in New York City. Mr. Green is exalted ruler of the local organization. While in New York they will attend the World's Fair and, enroute home, will visit in Springfield, Mass. They expect to be gone two weeks.

Mrs. J. O. Lewis says: "Congratulations to the Fulton merchants for the lovely planters of petunias. Let's keep them blooming for the Banana Festival. "Have you noticed the attractive planters near the parking lot on Mears Street?

"To prevent petunias from becoming 'leggy', start now and each week cut one runner from each plant back to 6-9 inches, also water every day. This will prevent any back-set in the showiness of the plants."

for his services as City Attorney. In a court order signed Monday by Judge C. H. Gwaltney of the Grand Sessions Court for Obion County, Counce was ordered to sign the checks to pay Fry or appear in Circuit court to contest the order.

Both sides contend that they have the legal right under the city charter to appoint the City Attorney.

Mayor Counce files in defense of his action a section of the charter which reads in part: "It shall be his (the Mayor's) duty to employ counsel in behalf of said corporation (the city) in any case in which said corporation shall be interested when he deems the same (employment) necessary."

Fry's supporters, Councilmen John Bland, Bill Jones, John Freeman, and W. W. Claiborne, support their action by citing a portion of the charter which reads in part: "The Mayor and City Council . . . may elect such other officers (besides Marshall, Recorder, and Treasurer) as they may deem necessary for the government, control, and welfare of said corporation (the city), such persons so elected to be citizens and qualified voters of said corporation."

Central Kentucky Parkway To Form Link In Toll-Road System; Could End Here

Completion of the Central Kentucky Parkway in the autumn of 1965 means that the Commonwealth will be well advanced in developing a system of four-lane superhighways across its length and breadth.

The central route, latest turnpike to go under construction, will be the completing link between east and west. The 72 miles will cross the rolling knobs of Abe Lincoln's country and the Bluegrass between Elizabethtown and Versailles.

The Central Parkway, along with two other east-west links, the Mountain Parkway and Western Kentucky Parkway, plus the proposed Purchase toll road, will connect the cotton areas of the Mississippi River with the coal, oil and timber regions of the Appalachian Mountains.

This chain of east-west parkways, which will pass within 50 miles of the homes of the majority of Kentuckians, is part of a unified network of four-lane highways up and down and across the map of Kentucky, that also includes the Kentucky Turnpike and nearly 700 miles of Interstate highways, built or under construction.

At groundbreaking ceremonies last April for start of construction on the Central Parkway, Governor Edward T. Breathitt called the 30-mile system of toll turnpikes the "main street" of Kentucky. He said the road "will create new markets for industry located in both extremes of the state."

Breathitt added: "It will mean new jobs, new farm income, an easier approach to institutions of education and culture, added opportunities for recreation, a breakdown of sectionalism and a widened political outlook."

"This connecting link will enable us to forge a chain of friendship, of economic activity, and of prosperity connecting all of Kentucky."

The Central Kentucky Parkway will not physically connect either the Western nor the Mountain Parkway, but with stretches of U. S. 60 and I-64 it will provide a four-lane straight-line route between these two parkways.

It will roughly parallel U. S. 62 between Versailles and Elizabethtown. Seven full interchanges are planned on the road: with the Kentucky Turnpike near Elizabethtown, Ky. 52 near Boston, U. S. 31-E south of Bardonia, Ky. 55 south of Bloomfield, Ky. 53 in Anderson County, U. S. 127 south of Lawrenceburg and U. S. 60 east of Versailles. Half-diamond interchanges are planned at U. S. 150 southeast of Bardonia and Ky. 33 south of Versailles.

Date set for completion of the Central Kentucky Parkway is November 15, 1965. Grade and drain work is under way now and paving is set for next year. The limited access toll road is being financed by a $70 million revenue bond issue.

The Department of Highways plans to widen four-lane U. S. 60 between Versailles and Lexington. With the Central Parkway, the Department estimates, driving time from Elizabethtown to Lexington will be 90 minutes. It is more than two hours now, via U. S. 62.

This is an example of how high-speed, safe and convenient parkways and Interstate highways are cutting traveling time north and south and east and west. The Central Parkway is another important factor in this better flow of traffic.

Governor Breathitt has asked for a study to determine whether traffic demands justify building a toll road through Kentucky's Jackson Purchase area from near the western end of the Western Kentucky Parkway to the Tennessee line. This would add another 45 miles to the State's expanding superhighway network.

In Kentucky...
after a swim, beer is a natural

On a hot summer day, a dip in a cool stream can be wonderfully refreshing. Equally refreshing when you're relaxing afterwards with friends is a hearty glass of beer. There's hardly another beverage around that suits what you do for fun as much as beer. Camping, hiking, or just lounging on a lawn chair—beer brings to each just the right touch of extra good living.

Your familiar glass of beer is also a pleasurable reminder that we live in a land of personal freedom—and that our right to enjoy beer and ale, if we so desire, is just one, but an important one, of those personal freedoms.

In Kentucky... beer goes with fun, with relaxation

ASCS Announces Cotton Penalties

Roy Bard, Chairman, Fulton ASCS County Committee, has said that the penalty rate on excess upland cotton and the liquidated damages rate for upland cotton produced on export acreage has been received. Bard announced that the penalty rate on excess cotton for 1964 is 20.4 cents per pound and the liquidated damage rate for the 1964 crop of upland cotton produced on export acreage is 20.4 cents per pound.

This rate will be used to compute penalties when necessary on the 1964 crop of cotton. Compliance is now being determined for all farms. Bard urged operators to make adjustments timely in order to avoid any penalty which might be assessed against this year's crop.

Your Wisest investment of time REGULAR CHURCH WORSHIP

"I was glad when they said unto me, 'Let us go into the house of the Lord.'"

Who is at the Helm?

Who guides our lives? Are we a ship without a helmsman? Are we adrift, going no place?

Thanks be to God, who loves us so, He is willing to guide us, to show us the way over all manner of seas. How glorious to know there is such a One! All of us follow someone, some standard, but the true standard is God and His Word.

Let Him take over the wheel. He doesn't promise smooth sailing all the time, but He promises to guide us through the storm, and show us the way over calm and sweet but sometimes marker-less seas.

"And the Lord shall guide thee continually, and satisfy thy soul in drought, and make fat thy bones: and thou shalt be like a watered garden, and like a spring of water whose waters fail not."

Isaiah 58:11

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Southern Bell
...Serving You

SOUTH FULTON—

the state did not uniformly enforce its own vending machine tax.

Bland attempted to reassure Reeks, saying, "I'm not trying to illegally tax you or anybody else." Reeks quietly responded, "I don't think you are either; I just think you have some misconceptions."

Bland then made a motion that the city repeal all tobacco licenses assessed on the basis of individual vending machines and refund all money paid on the license tax since January 1. The motion passed with only Councilman Bill Jones in opposition.

To replace the repealed tax on individual machines, Bland then proposed a motion that Reeks be taxed simply for the privilege of doing business as a tobacco dealer at the rate of two dollars per machine.

The settlement of the issue was a compromise between the old policy of one license per machine and Reeks' suggestion at the previous meeting that the city tax him at a flat rate for doing business as a tobacco dealer.

The compromise motion passed with Jones again the only member of the Council opposed. In explaining his position he said vehemently, "I'm opposed to all this. It's just giving money away." He then changed his vote to give the motion unanimous passage.

Dr. H. W. Connaughton appeared before the Council to protest the decision it made at its previous regular meeting to require him to pay a debt of $6,250 which the records showed he had owed the city since August 1963.

Connaughton explained that when the debt was contracted in 1960 the Council in office at the time had entered into an oral agreement with him to the effect that the notes would be renewed annually without interest. He strongly insisted that the present Council should honor this agreement.

Bland argued that according to the written minutes of the Council no such agreement had ever been made and, since the notes were "therefore overdue," Connaughton should pay them off immediately. Mayor Counce supported Connaughton's contention that such an agreement had indeed been made. He also explained that this arrangement about the debt, which was for the construction of water and sewer lines to Connaughton's newest sub-division, had been made in an effort to encourage the growth of the city.

Connaughton said that under the terms of the original oral agreement he was to pay off a portion of the original debt as he sold each lot, and that he would continue to do so.

Counce agreed with Bland that in the absence of proof of the terms of the agreement, the city could force Connaughton to pay immediately, but said the issue at stake was whether the Council wanted to encourage or discourage people to build in South Fulton.

Bland's motion to require immediate payment was defeated by Councilmen Rex Ruddle, John Freeman, and W. W. Claiborne over the opposition of the Bland-Jones-Freeman-Claiborne combine which has usually voted together.

Councilman Claiborne presented a petition signed, he said, by virtually every person living on Taylor and Bates Streets. It asked the Council to restore two-way traffic on the two streets.

Claiborne said that the decision to make the streets one-way had been made at the last regular Council meeting to try to protect the safety and welfare of the people living on them, but that if they didn't approve, it should not be forced upon them. A motion restoring two-way traffic was passed without opposition.

Councilman Bland expressed his disgust at the large number of overdue utility bills on hand and recommended that the city's collection policies be changed. The Council agreed unanimously.

Bills have been being mailed on the 1st of each month, a penalty has been added if no payment was received by the 21st, and service was terminated on the 20th of the following month if the bill still remained unpaid. After that point no action has been taken to collect unless the Council voted to turn the unpaid bills over to the City Attorney.

Effective August 1st, the city will handle unpaid bills by adding the overdue penalty on the 10th of the month, cutting off service on the 15th, and on the 20th Attorney for collection—all in the turning the bill over to the City same month.
